"I am about to graduate high school and attend the University of Idaho this coming fall. My goal is to get my master's degree in psychology and become a youth substance abuse counselor. I want to help kids that are dealing with substance abuse and make an impact on the other kids in my community that may be struggling."

"I am excited to learn how to help others and learn about solutions to help the world. Some of my favorite courses are science and math which helped me decide on engineering as a degree. I am planning on pursuing a bachelor's degree in environmental engineering at Utah State University. Then I hope to attain a job in a wastewater or freshwater facility."
