Vanaeh Hughey

Owasso High

"Growing up with a parent affected by a traumatic brain injury taught me that life can change instantly, but it also taught me to appreciate every opportunity I am given. It taught me to work hard, stay focused, and never take my goals for granted. My dad's journey is the foundation of my motivation, but my drive now comes from the person I want to become: a dedicated student, a committed athlete, and a compassionate future healthcare professional."

Kara Guinn

Broken Arrow High

"My long-term goal is to become an international lawyer. Not the intimidating type who slams briefcases down dramatically, but someone who advocates for human rights, helps communities understand global legal systems, and supports fairness across borders. This year I was accepted to the University of Tulsa. The university offers an excellent accelerated law program, opportunities to study abroad, and courses that can expand my understanding of different cultures."
